SANDO

Making rubber handle sledgehammers since 1975 from South Africa.

Sando striking tools revolutionised the industry by inventing the rubber handle sledgehammers to withstand the rigorous conditions of hard rock mining, offering durability and safety.

THE UNBREAKABLE HANDLE SLEDGE HAMMER

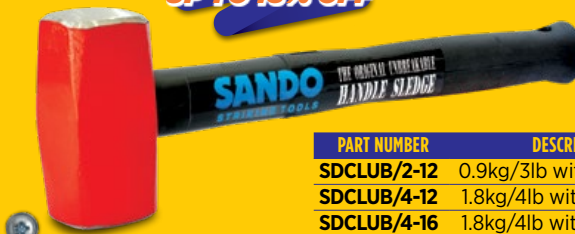

Developed in 1975 to withstand the rigorous hard rock mining conditions in South Africa.

The handle is made of a series of high tensile spring steel rods around which is moulded, under a high compression factor, very strong and abrasive-resistant rubber.

The hammer heads are also vulcanised to the rubber handle during this moulding operation and are secured to the spring steel rods by a positive locking plate.
